Or a ski club or a professional association. Any group like these can use Rent-a-Planes to get to conventions or vacations (Affinity Charter).

Business organizations may use Rent-a-Planes to take winners of sales incentive contests on vacation trips (Single Entity Charter).

What about people who don't belong to a group?

No problem. Travel agents use Rent-a-Planes to jet individuals on package tours at incredibly low prices, too (Inclusive Tour Charter).

You'll like working with a travel agent.

Because it's no work at all. For you. He arranges hotels, meals, sightseeing, the works. He even advises you on getting passports, customs, tipping, all the little details of your trip.

He's a big help in helping us make the traveler's lot a lot easier. So give him a call and ask him about O.N.A. Rent-a-Planes. You'll be glad we took the rent-a-car idea. And got it off the ground.

1967: the Rent-a-Plane

O.N.A. makes the traveler's lot a lot easier.

Rent-a-cars look like regular cars. And Overseas National Airways Rent-a-Planes look like regular planes. Because they're big, new DC-8 and DC-9 jets.

Regular planes are flown by pilots who meet incredibly rigid Federal Aviation Administration standards. So are Rent-a-Planes. Regular planes have lovely stewardesses serving lavish food and liquor. So do Rent-a-Planes. So O.N.A. Rent-a-Planes are just like regular planes, right? Wrong.

Because O.N.A. Rent-a-Planes make the traveler's lot a lot easier.

They make things a lot easier on your pocketbook. O.N.A. Rent-a-Planes can fly your group virtually anywhere and back for 25 to 60%* less than you'd pay for the cheapest round-trip ticket on a regular plane. London, Madrid, Paris or Frankfurt for example. Or maybe Las Vegas, Hawaii, Sun Valley, Curacao or the Bahamas. You name it. (That's another thing we do to make your lot easier: fly your group anywhere that's got a jet airport. From anywhere that's got a jet airport).

How do O.N.A. Rent-a-Planes work?

It's simple. We rent our Rent-a-Planes directly through travel agents to fraternal and social clubs, or business organizations. Just about everybody belongs to some organization like Rotary. Or the Ladies Auxiliary. Or a ski club or a professional association. Any group like these can use Rent-a-Planes to get to conventions or vacations (Affinity Charter).

Business organizations may use Rent-a-Planes to take winners of sales incentive contests on vacation trips (Single Entity Charter).

"What to look for when you sign up for a group charter flight."

SAYS STAN DELAPLANE (THAT TRAVELING MAN)*:

"You belong to a club or some organization. And now you hear about those charter flights. The friends whose 'club chartered a plane and went to Europe for practically nothing.'

"I'd say each week I write fifty, a hundred letters—well, about a fourth of my reader mail asks something about charters.

"It's a daydream word. Those lovely mental pictures of flashing blue seas off Hawaii. Smoke-blue twilights in Paris in autumn. 'If I could get on one of those club things. That won't cost much. Why, we could fly to . . . . . .

"Group charters don't work for everybody. You don't just go down, sign up and ship out. But people in clubs—fraternal and employee organizations, bird watchers—can travel in their own chartered aircraft. At much lower costs. Here's how it works.

"The charter airline is usually chosen by a committee of the club. Usually on the advice of a travel agent—he's manager for your trip.

"I would still ask the committee to look into a few questions. (After all, it IS your trip.)

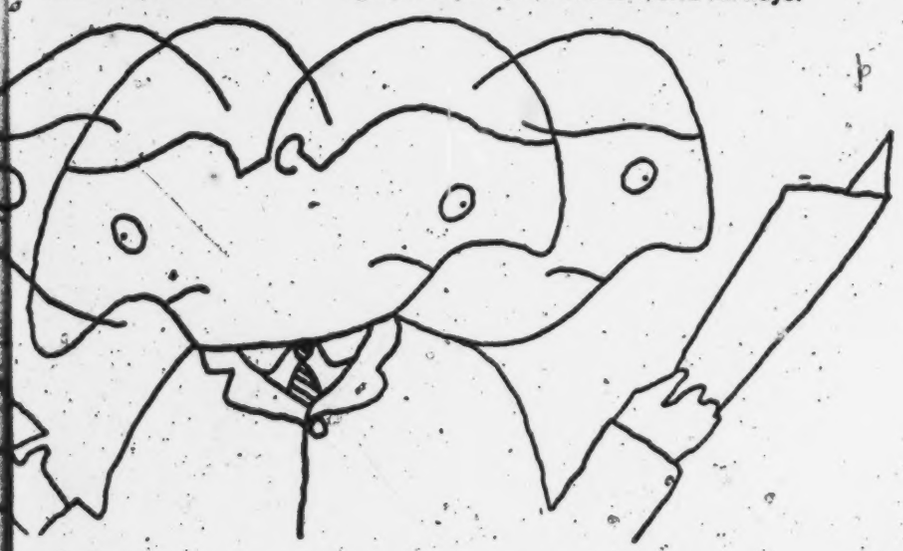
"How about this airline? What other groups have bought charters from them? Have they got some 'satisfied customer' mail? (They should.)

"What kind of airplane are you flying on? (The big late model jets have it all over the earlier ones.)

"How many people are they putting into the plane? They tell me 165 is the good number. Any more, you're out of leg room. Any less, you can't get the good price. (I've heard of planes jammed with 200.) Once, I sat with knees jammed under my chin for twelve hours at a clip. (I thought they'd have to hang me in a steamy bathroom to get me straightened out.)

"These are the questions they ask me. And at the right, I've passed them to World Airways."

*Stan Delaplane is a Pulitzer prize-winning reporter. He writes a syndicated column. Answers several hundred reader questions each week. And travels, travels, travels (more than half the year) to the glamor datelines of the world.



WORLD AIRWAYS CLEARS UP SOME QUESTIONS ON CHARTER AIRLINES:

Q. What is a charter airline, anyway?

A. What's a chartered limousine service? Same sort of thing. World Airways specializes in taking people where they want to go—in comfort and style—by the planeload, instead of a seat at a time. The U.S. government has selected certain airlines and granted them permanent certification as "U.S. Supplemental Carriers." That is, charter airlines. World Airways is the largest of these. World flight crews are as much at home landing at Tokyo or Tegal as they are at Tampa.

Q. Can we fly from our own airport?

A. Yes—if your airport can handle the big jets. Lines like World can usually take you non-stop from where you are to where you want to go. You don't have to travel 500 miles just to board your charter jet.

Q. Is the plane the newest model jet?

A. Positively—if you book on one of the leading charter airlines like World. World, for example, has a fleet of fifteen Boeing jets—including the largest and fastest 707 Intercontinental fan jets and the equally new 727 tri-jets. EVERY ONE BRAND-NEW!

Q. What's this I hear about people getting stranded?

A. That doesn't happen on a U.S. Certificated Supplemental Carrier. When you charter an aircraft, it's yours—no matter what U.S. airline it comes from. World Airways has constantly maintained an outstanding on-time record, and is the only airline to have won the coveted Award of Honor for safety from the National Safety Council for each of the last three years.

Q. How's the food?

A. Marvelous! On a World Airways charter, you'll enjoy excellent dining, including delicious salads and entrees, wines, cordials—in-between-meal snacks—and of course, cocktails of your choice. All served by six of the most gracious hostesses you've ever seen!

Q. What about flight crews on charter airlines?

A. World employs more than 250 full-time flight crew members and more than 250 hostesses. World operates its own school for additional and continuing training, and the standards are actually higher than the U.S. government requires.

Q. Is chartering a jet complicated? How do we get started?

A. Have your club secretary or president call your travel agent, or World directly, for charter information and aircraft availability. Remember—World is a charter airline—and the only way you can enjoy the delights of charter flight is if your organization charters. Or you can now buy one of the new "packaged" inclusive tours through your travel agent. Travel agents call these "ITC's." You, as an individual, buy a complete tour including transportation, hotels, sightseeing and transfers. But call your travel agent first—he's your travel friend.
